3 Girls, Man Hurt In Rt. 62 Crash

Four persons, including three Salem girls, were injured in a two-car collision on Route 62, two miles north of Salem at 4:05 p. m. Sunday.

Injured are:

Martha Hippely, 20, R. D. 3, Salem, lacerations of the face, bruises and abrasions.

Phoebe Anderson, 21, of 385 W. Pershing st., compound fracture of the right leg, and severe scalp lacerations.

Mildred Alek, 20, of R. D. 2, Salem, fractured left leg and severe scalp lacerations.

Robert H. Wernecke, 24, of Canton, possible broken back, lacerations of the head and right hand, and bruises.

The girls were brought to Salem City hospital.

The drivers of the cars were Miss Hippely and Wernecke.

The state patrol said the Hippely car, travelling north, swung around another car, directly into the path of the Wernecke vehicle, moving south.

Wernecke tried to swerve off the road, but the other car hit his left head. Both cars were badly damaged. Wernecke's was practically demolished.

he fell from the rear of a pick-up truck operated by his father, Ernest Cozza, 42, of R. D. 3, Salem. The mishap occurred at 6 p. m. Saturday on the Teegarden road, two-tenths of a mile west of Route 45.

He was brought to city hospital.

Cars operated by Don L. Abrams, 16, of 382 Vine ave. and F. E. Dorden, 54, of Alliance, sideswiped on Route 62, near the Mahoning-Stark county line at 10:30 p. m. Sunday, the patrol said.

Both cars were damaged, but no one was injured.

HOUSING BILL HOPE HIGH NOW

Democrats Expect To Put
That Phase Of Truman
Program Through

WASHINGTON, May 16—(AP)—Democratic leaders hope to hand President Truman this week, at last, one major victory in his program. This would be in housing.

The house tentatively set a vote for Thursday or Friday on the administration's multi-billion dollar housing bill. It calls for a far-flung program of slum clearance, low-rent public housing and farm housing aids.

WILL FLIP COIN TUESDAY, SETTLE COUNCIL SEAT TIE

The flip of a coin Tuesday night will break a tie in a Salem Democratic race that has been up in the air since the primary election nearly two weeks ago.

The county election board will flip the coin at its courthouse office in Lisbon to decide whether Wilbur Hamilton or Harold J. Astly is the party's nominee for third ward councilman.

Hamilton was the apparent winner, 48-47, in the official returns. Then Astly petitioned for a recount. The new tabulation count Hamilton one vote and left a deadlock, 47-47.

Hamilton has one more legal "out" if he loses in the coin-tossing tomorrow night. He may petition for a recount of the remaining precinct.

Open House Held At City Hospital

Miss Hester M. Willis, director of nurses, Miss Marie Carey, admitting officer, and Miss Mary Bender formed the reception committee.

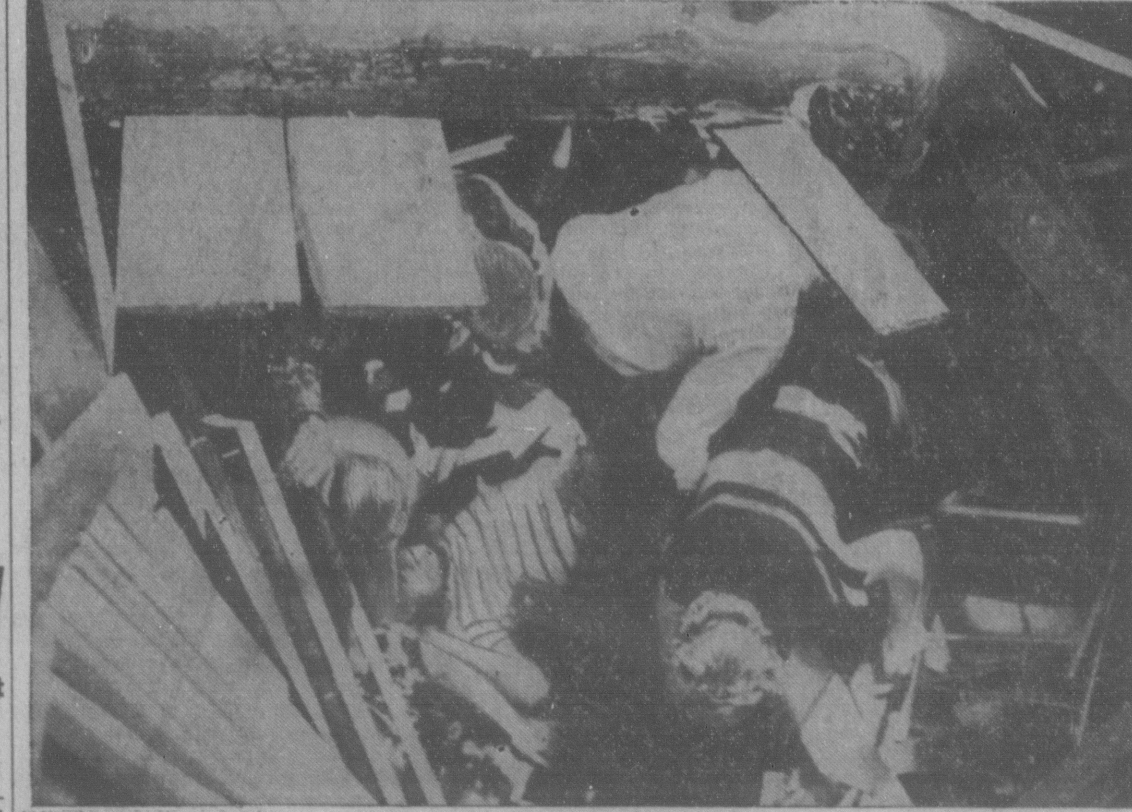

Students, nurses, Bonnie Dodd, Odessa Bohner, Ramona Watson, and Carolyn Rosa served as guides for a tour of the hospital. Open for public visitation were the special service departments, surgeries, delivery rooms, X-ray rooms, nurseries, laboratories and emergency and fracture rooms.

Mrs. Helen Brainerd and Mrs. H. A. Zealley headed the committee of auxiliary members who served light refreshments to visitors.

Grandstand Collapse Injures 20

Victims of a grandstand collapse at the Indianapolis Speedway struggle to extricate themselves from the wreckage moments after an aisleway and box seat section gave way, injuring about 20 persons. The accident occurred as a crowd unofficially estimated at 30,000 watched the qualifying trials for the 500-mile Memorial Day racing classic in Indianapolis.

WHAT'S WRONG ON T-H REPEAL? AFL HEADS PONDERING

BY HAROLD W. WARD
CLEVELAND, May 16—(AP)—The men who run the American Federation of Labor gathered today to figure out what went wrong with their time-table for repealing the Taft-Hartley act.

The AFL went farther than most labor groups in the frantic last minute efforts two weeks ago to compromise the Truman repeal bill and wipe out most of the Taft-Hartley law.

That effort was lost as the compromise measure failed of passage and the whole fight was shifted back again to the house labor committee.

NEW GARDEN BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

Richard Gantz, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gantz of New Garden, is still unconscious today in Canton Mercy hospital, following injury in a motorbike-auto accident in Malvern at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

He suffered a fractured skull.

He was riding on the motorbike with William McMillen, 15, of Kensington. The bike hit the side of a car driven by Herman Crowl of Malvern.

Autos Pile Up Near Hospital

A four-car accident in front of the City hospital at 2:45 p. m. Sunday caused damage to three of the vehicles involved, police reported.

It was caused in a unique manner. One of the drivers, Lester W. Manuel of Akron, said he suddenly looked up while driving west and saw the blinking caution light in front of the hospital. Thinking it was a stop light, he slammed on his brakes. Three other cars behind him piled up.

They were driven by Merle A. Yoder of East Rochester, James A. Warner and Ronald Bush of Washingtonville. The injustice of the affair was that the latter three cars were damaged and Manuel's was not.

A car driven by R. A. Donaldson of Washington, Pa., started to pass another operated by Ralph Parise of Pittsburgh at the Ellsworth-E State intersection, thinking Parise was going to make a left turn.

The latter, however, turned right hitting the side of the Donaldson car. Fenders on both were damaged.

Betty Gray of 909 W. State st. drove her car away from the curb at Pershing and E. Ellsworth ave. at 11:05 a. m. Saturday, and ran into the side of a passing car driven by Bernard Freeman of Columbus.

The right front fender, doors and right rear fender of Freeman's car were damaged.

SYMPHONY CONCERT ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Climaxing a well-received program with selections from the "Student Prince" by Romberg, the Columbus County symphony orchestra received five minutes of applause from the appreciative audience yesterday in the High school auditorium.

Director Arthur Wise scored favorably with the Salem audience. Soloist Ruth West singing was heard on the program with selections from Handel's "Messiah." She declined the audience's insistence for an encore.

The 60-member group of musicians presented the program as a benefit for the Central Clinic building fund.

CLEVELAND, May 16—Joseph Oriol Eaton, 78, board chairman of the Eaton Manufacturing Co. died yesterday. Eaton manufacturing is one of the five largest producers of automobile parts in the world.

1,000 Take Part In Americanism Program Sunday

More than 1,000 participated in the "I Am An American" day yesterday at Reilly stadium under sponsorship of the Charles H. Carey post, American Legion.

Appellate Judge Elmer T. Phillips of Youngstown spoke on the "Re-discovery of Russia. He remarked on the political and economic philosophies of that country. He stated that the Russians are more closely associated with the thinking of the Orient than the West, or Europe—and people of the U. S. should remember this point when trying to understand that country.

The recognition of the day got underway in local churches when pastors brought Americanism into their sermons. A parade, led by the American Legion Quaker City band, started at 1:30 p. m. with social and civic organizations joining in the march to the stadium. There the band played and the program included the old-world touch of native songs and dances presented by the Italian society, Romanian Leul, Czech-Slovak club and men and women's Saxon societies. Also on the program was Mayor R. R. Johnson, Edmund Marlow of Columbus, state activities chairman for the Legion who led the pledge to the flag, Capt. Robert Barton of the Salvation Army, who led the singing of America, Charles Boren, Columbus County Legion commander, Harmon Zepernick, Legion district vice commander, and three local residents who have recently become naturalized.

Rev. Fr. William Appell gave the invocation and Rev. R. J. Hunter pronounced the benediction. Eleanor Buda sang "The Star Spangled Banner" at the close of the ceremonies.

Last night in the State theater the Legion, color guard and colors were presented on stage and in a short program additional recognition was given to "I Am An American" day.

John Herman was the parade marshal and Alty Guy Mauro was chairman of arrangements for the celebration.

Reckless Driving Arrests Total 59

The arrest of two drivers for reckless operation over the weekend brought the year's total of arrests on this charge to 56, Chief of Police Nerr Gault said today.

Only 59 drivers were arrested for reckless operation during the entire year of 1948. Local police will continue to press their drive against dangerous and reckless driving, Gault said.

The latest to be called into court are:

Raymond Gorby, 31, of R. D. 4, Lisbon, fined $15 and costs by Mayor R. R. Johnson this morning. He was arrested at 1:50 a. m. Sunday on E. Ellsworth ave.

Carl W. Deland Jr., 31, of Lisbon, fined $15 and costs by Johnson this morning. He was arrested at 3 a. m. Sunday on S. Lincoln ave.

CREWS CLEAN DEBRIS AFTER TWISTER HITS

Amarillo, Texas, Hit Hard
By Twister; At Least Four Are Killed

AMARILLO, Texas, May 16—(AP)—Relief crews dug today into the debris of a tornado that whipsawed the southern part of this panhandle capital last night, leaving four or more dead.

Hospitals were crowded with 63 or more injured.

Red Cross relief officials flew from St. Louis to the stricken city of 102,000.

Heavy rains and hail, up to the size of a man's fist, drenched and pounded the ruins hampering relief work. South Amarillo, dotted largely with new homes of veterans, bore the brunt of the vicious cone of wild winds which destroyed or damaged up to 50 houses.

The dead:

Mrs. Lois Martin, 30.
Eva McPherson, 56.
George McPherson, 67.
Mrs. Charles Maserang, age unknown.

Cars by the hundred massed at the edge of the storm's handiwork. The twister seemed to hit first on 28th street. It moved south. Roofs left houses in the whirling wind and trees were uprooted and laid on their side.

Wheat Damaged

A record wheat crop is maturing in the panhandle, and it was feared the accompanying hail and down-pour might have caused heavy crop damage.

First reports from an ambulance driver that 25 to 50 persons might have died in the swift blow did not materialize.

One hospital had 34 known injured and another had 29. Most suffered cuts and bruises but some were unconscious.

Louis Nordyke of The Amarillo Globe-News said officials at the Trade Winds airport in Amarillo reported 45 planes were destroyed and that two hangars were flattened. Damage there alone was estimated at $200,000. Nordyke said Massey-Harris, biggest farm implement dealer in the panhandle, reported another $200,000 damage. Most of it was in badly needed wheat combines and other harvesting equipment.

Tornadoes hit elsewhere in the panhandle. They knocked out telephone and telegraph lines, but the damage at places except Amarillo was believed light.

South Amarillo was a scene of twisted, grotesque wreckage.

The twister missed the giant U. S. helium plant, located in the direction from which the twister came.

Ten or more cars of a moving Santa Fe freight train were also blown off the track.

Gruver, Adrian, Dawn, Umbarger and Stinnett, all in the storm area, were isolated for awhile.

A traveler who came from Pampa to Amarillo said he saw cars wrecked along the highway and they looked like they had been blown off the highway.

Chinese City May Be Completely Cut Off At Any Hour

SHANGHAI, May 16—(UP)—Communist forces pushed through the outer suburbs of Shanghai today and swung around to the east side of the city in an encirclement drive that threatened to cut it off completely at any hour.

The Communist forces were massing in strength on every side of this largest Chinese city. They were in the outlying Metropolitan communities to the north, south, east and west. Officials feared the last narrow bottleneck out of Shanghai, along the Whangpoo to the north, would be closed soon.

With the showdown for Shanghai apparently at hand, the Communists threw a spearhead around the city's south side and entrenched themselves in positions to the east.

U. S. Consul General John Cabot said the consulate did not anticipate hostilities and destruction inside Shanghai itself. In such an unlikely event, he said, he believed some action would be taken to protect the approximately 1,500 Americans still here.

The last rush out of Shanghai by foreigners was on. But Cabot said he did not expect many Americans to take advantage of a U. S. Navy offer to evacuate them down the Whangpoo river to ships lying off the mouth of the Yangtze. Most had decided to stay, he said.

The two American airlines flying to Shanghai suspended service. Scores of Britons fled to Hong Kong. U. S. LCI's dashed up and down the Whangpoo, the tributary of the Yangtze which flows into it a few miles north of Shanghai. The Communist troops were near the river and attacking the Woosung forts at the Whangpoo mouth.

The chances of use of the river being cut by hostilities along its banks mounted hourly.

By latest estimates the Communists were only 10 or 12 miles from downtown Shanghai to the east. Heavy explosions were heard in that direction. They did not appear to be artillery fire, but demolition.

To the west, Nationalist troops withdrew from Huangpu, eight miles from Shanghai proper. Communist troops were reported near Huangpu air field five miles west of Shanghai.

On the south side, a homing beacon seven miles south of Lungwa International airport, itself on the south edge of Shanghai, ceased functioning.

EISLER MUST PROVE CASE

Order To Show Cause Why
Britain Shouldn't
Deport Him To U. S.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 16—(AP)—Fugitive Communist Gerhart Eisler was ordered today to show cause why Britain should not deport him to America.

A Southampton magistrate's court ordered he be remanded to London's Bow street court—the only court in Britain empowered to deal with extradition cases.

In London Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski arranged to see Foreign Secretary Bevin this afternoon to deliver an oral protest because Scotland yard men lugged Eisler off the Batery Saturday.

Eisler stowed away on the ship and paid his passage when he was discovered.

A Labor member of parliament, Reginald Paget, served notice he would ask Home Secretary James Chuter Ede in commons today why Britain—which traditionally has given asylum to political refugees—has taken a hand in the proceedings against Eisler.

Was In Soviet

Eisler's lawyer, Dudley Colliard was in Moscow during the 1937 purge trials and wrote a book entitled "Soviet Justice."

Colliard said Eisler had been described as America's number one Communist. "He is not America's number one Communist," Colliard said. "He is not even an American."

Colliard declared the treatment given Eisler in the U. S. was "a game of cat and mouse of which this is the latest and I hope the last round."

Eisler "is and always has been a German and never wanted to be in the United States," his lawyer said. He asserted Eisler fled the Nazis in Europe, intending to go to Mexico, but at Trinidad was diverted to the U. S. He said American authorities never allowed Eisler to proceed to Mexico.

Colliard termed Eisler's arrest "forcible abduction from the ship of a friendly country and an unprecedented breach of international law."

Colliard maintained the offense alleged against Eisler, which was described in the court as perjury, was an "offense of a political nature" and declared the fugitive could not be extradited to it.

BOY SCOUTS WIN HONORS AT CAMP

In the Boy Scout court of honor, held Saturday evening during the northern district camporee at Camp McKinley, Salem and Columbiana scouts were recognized for their activities.

Second class awards went to Bob Hutchison, George Strauss and Jack Kelly of Troop 8, Salem, and to Bob Hoffman, Jack Dilworth, Bill Rupert, John Patchen and David Evans of Columbiana.

Star Scout awards were presented to Larry Bailey, Joe Reeves, Lawrence McVay, and Bruce Miller, all of Columbiana. Sammy Walker, Robert Justice and Kenneth Girard, also of Columbiana, received first class awards.

The camporee was marked by a new type of contest on Saturday afternoon when each of the 11 patrols showed their prowess by preparing overnight packs, model tents and a model meal over fireplaces which they constructed and with fire made without matches.

Rev. Cyril Huston, pastor of the First Christian church, Lisbon, was in charge of Sunday morning services, according to Andrew Hodge of Salem, director of the camporee.

British Authorities Called Up Five Royal Air Force Sunderland Flying Boats From Hong Kong and began loading them at 8 a. m. today with 30 passengers each for the flight to Hong Kong. Each passenger was limited to 20 pounds of luggage.

The last-minute British exodus will keep going until all Britons who wish to leave Shanghai have been flown out, British authorities said. The first planes this morning took 186 British subjects.

The managers of one Chinese and two British commercial airlines making flights to Canton and Hong Kong said they would keep operating until Lungwa was threatened by the Communists.

The most recent government military report said strong Communist forces from the west and southwest were moving steadily toward Shanghai's outer defense perimeter.

The official central news agency said a number of "defense pockets" had been organized on the fringes of the city to stop Communist infiltration.

Each "defense pocket" was equipped with strong motorized units, infantry, artillery and tanks, central said.

For A Solvent Republic

All politics aside, the United States must learn how to handle its public money. American security is in greater danger from sloppy finances than it is from a foreign enemy. Budget policy can't be made up on the spur of the moment any more than military strategy.

Either the American system of government is better than the systems which are challenging it, or it won't survive. And if it cannot maintain a solvent republic, it won't survive. Every new expenditure should be put to this test: Is it worth the additional taxes needed to finance it? Politics should be barred.

Unfortunately, the solvency of the republic never can be discussed with politics barred. Politicians look upon public money as bait to catch votes. Public jobholders become rooted in their jobs and interests. Dogooders think up endless ways to spend more money, regardless of cost. Government has become a monster with an insatiable appetite—and the appeasement of the monster has become the profession of millions of parasitic citizens with no other means of support. They are capable of ruining the republic to save themselves.

This is the background for a report on national solvency by the Committee For Economic Development.

The United States can live inside its present income and build up a cash reserve. Or it can let expense rise and not boost tax rates. There are no other choices, the committee declares.

In a lengthy report it then proves to the satisfaction of anyone not obsessed with the idea that public money should be used to buy votes that the only safe policy is to make the government live within its income. The policy would have to be made effective through congress. That could happen only if individual congressmen were made to feel that voters were opposed to ever-larger financial commitments. There would have to be an abrupt transition from spend-and-spend-and-spend-and-spend to a safer kind. The safer kind would penalize politicians for being reckless with the solvency of the United States.

There would be no political premium on bread and circuses—and free this, that and the other thing—for the American people. It would be a miracle if it happened. And unless there's a miracle, the United States stands in grave danger of becoming just another civilization that went broke from too much politics.

Vulnerable Spots

The unusual accident that blocked the Holland tunnel for a day and a half at the close of last week is the stuff on which nightmares feed before stampeding through the tired minds of security officials.

If an accidental explosion of chemicals on an ordinary truck could disrupt vehicular traffic and telephone and telegraph for a day and a half, the possibilities of a planned explosion in the Holland tunnel are beyond imagination. If at the same time explosions occurred in all the other tunnels connecting Manhattan island with the mainland, the entire country would stagger from the blow.

It isn't healthy to dwell too long on such possibilities. There is no conceivable way to offset them. Modern civilization is so intricately tied together with communications that it has become hopelessly vulnerable to sabotage. There is no security except that which comes from the absence of saboteurs. The fact that there was no important damage done during World War II is a tribute to the FBI, which rounded up those who were under suspicion. If war comes again and the United States is to be reasonably secure from internal attack, it will be only because the FBI is prepared to act quickly and thoroughly.

Armament Race

The broad outline of European rearmament published by the State department will give congressmen the talking points they need for official discussion. And it will clear up several things which are muddled in the public mind.

The State department is proposing, in effect, an armament race. But it is not like the armament races of the past, with many contestants. This is to be a match race, so to speak, between the United States and the Soviet union.

It is assumed that as of today the latter has the edge in Europe. That is, it has sufficient power to overrun Europe. The United States, on the other hand, has the edge in the world at large. Its naval strength, its greater productive resources and the atomic bomb more than offset Russian land strength in Europe.

Therefore, the United States is willing to furnish arms to European countries which have stayed out of the Russian political orbit. It is willing to do this at great cost—$1,300,000,000 now and more later—because rearmament would restore a balance of power on the continent.

Russia's military strength would be offset by the strength-in-being of the rearmament European countries, plus the strength-to-come of the United States, in the event of war. Therefore, according to official reasoning, there would be no war. If Russia couldn't win it wouldn't fight. And no other nation would start a war, because the United States and its associates in the North Atlantic pact wouldn't permit it.

A VERY prosperous, pleasant and progressive state of affairs is presaged by major propitious planets, working in harmony for high goals, of widening scope and long duration.

Keep the energies and faculties aimed for increasing opportunities, in which personal, professional, financial and social benefits may add up to exceptional pleasure as well as profit. Cultivate happy relations for growing prestige and popularity, with expanding possessions, enhanced power, dignities and honors, in which joyous celebrations are alluring. Philanthropic, charitable and generous moods prevail.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are on the threshold of a pleasant, productive and prosperous year, in which honors, distinction and tokens of preference are in order. This holds true in relation to business, financial, cultural and social or domestic ties.

Enhanced scope for progress is in sight, with growing prestige and power, all with due celebration and enjoyment. Possessions, influence and personal emoluments may be generously augmented, with much gentility or hospitality.

A child born on this day, may be hospitable, generous, fond of prestige, power and good living. Its social, financial and domestic life should be warm and friendly.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By WALTER KERNAN

Things must be getting dull again at the UN. Franco is back on the griddle.

It seems to be agreed there is no place in the United Nations for a dictator nation... even the dictator nations in the United Nations agree on that.

This boy either will have to go Communist or get himself a press agent if he expects to get in.

Incidentally, it's too bad the Pulitzer prize for biography was awarded before the press agent sketch of John L. Lewis came out... it should win some sort of prize hands up.

Who would have thought that Mr. Lewis likes to play with children... most thought he just played with law, the government, the national economy and the public temper.

And Frankie Perkins probably never suspected when he used to walk out on her that it was just "old-fashioned courtesies."

Symptoms of Angina Pectoris

By HERMAN N. RUNDSEEN, M. D.

There is this to be said for angina pectoris—it creates such unmistakable symptoms that it can seldom be ignored by the patient or confused by the doctor with any other form of heart disease.

Angina pectoris is a disorder of the heart due, in most cases, to hardening of the main coronary arteries which carry blood to the heart muscle.

Pain, under the breast bone or over the heart, is its chief symptom. Though of short duration, it is usually severe while it lasts, often passing upward into the left shoulder and down the arm. Almost invariably it comes on during or immediately after exercise, emotional aspects or chilling.

Classic Picture

This is the classic picture, but sometimes the pain may be slight and in a little different location. Now and then, for instance, it may be felt chiefly in the upper part of the abdomen. Not only may the pain pass into the shoulder and arm but upward into the neck to the left side of the face. In severe cases, the pain may pass upward into both arms.

This passage of the pain to various parts of the body is known as radiation. If the area of radiation should change, it may indicate that further changes in the heart may have occurred, such as further narrowing of the opening through the coronary arteries.

In addition to the pain, there may be other symptoms, such as sweating, weakness, fainting, collapse, dizziness, and shortness of breath. However, all of these symptoms are not present in every case, and it is on the pain and its characteristics that the diagnosis of angina pectoris is made.

When it is suspected that a person has this disorder, he should, of course, be carefully studied by his physician, and an electrocardiogram made. This is an electric tracing of the heart beat, and is helpful in the diagnosis.

Decide Treatment

The physician will decide in each case just what treatment is necessary. In every case, of course, chilling, overstrain, and emotional upsets, which tend to bring on the attacks, must be avoided. These patients are supplied also with nitroglycerine which they can take when an attack threatens.

There are many facts concerning angina pectoris which still must be determined by scientific study and experimentation. This is true in regard to many forms of heart disease, and it is important that such

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. D.: About an hour after each meal my heart beats peculiarly. Can this be caused by stomach disorder?

Answer: A stomach disturbance might cause the irregularity in the heart beat. However, in order to be sure, you should have an examination made, including an electrocardiogram or electric tracing of the heart.

Special Program Arranged

Music Study Club Marks 25th Birthday On Friday

Salem's first Music Study club, which has played a prominent part in musical circles here for the past quarter of a century, will observe its 25th anniversary at 8 p. m. Friday in the Presbyterian social hall, with Mrs. Homer S. Taylor, president, officiating.

Mrs. P. J. Stoudt, one of 11 charter members, is general chairman for the celebration, which promises to be a memorable event. Mrs. Stoudt is being assisted by Mrs. J. W. Astor, Mrs. Vesta King, Miss Hilda Franke and Mrs. J. W. Hundertmark.

The 1948-49 program committee is comprised of Mrs. Wilbur Spalding, chairman; Mrs. Stoudt, Mrs. Walter Hofmeister and Mrs. W. J. Hunsdon.

The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Men's chorus will entertain the club and its guests.

Among the organizations invited and guests, are the Travelers, Book, Quota, Leornians, Business and Professional Women, the Salem Garden and the Garden Study clubs, the Vocalists, Salem Men's chorus, the Junior Music club, Ministers of Salem churches, their wives, church choirs, and Thomas E. Crothers, supervisor of music in the public schools; Mrs. Crothers, and Howard Pardee, supervisor of instrumental music in the schools, and Mrs. Pardee.

Mrs. H. E. Stiver of Granville, a resident of Salem for many years, and the late Mrs. E. E. Dyball, both talented musicians, were the instigators of the club. Because of ill health Mrs. Stiver will not be here for Friday night's program.

Initial Officers
On Feb. 29, 1924, the group which formed the club met at the home of the late Mrs. W. W. Tolerton, E. Third st., and elected these officers:

President, Mrs. Stiver; vice president, Mrs. Vesta King; secretary, Mrs. Tolerton; treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Stoner.

Charter members include Mrs. Stiver, Mrs. Dyball, Mrs. King, Mrs. Tolerton, Mrs. J. W. Hendricks, Mrs. Mary McMurray Griffin, Mrs. Stoudt, Mrs. J. W. Hundertmark, Mrs. James Hayden, Mrs. Stoner and Mrs. Lawrence D. Drennan.

Shortly after its organization, the club affiliated with the State Federation of Music Clubs.

By the fall of 1924, the club had 25 members on its roll and a program outlined which included meetings from Oct. 13 to the following May 18.

The first program committee included Mrs. Dyball, chairman; Mrs. King and Mrs. Hendricks.

Mrs. J. W. Astor was hostess at the first session of the 1924-25 season.

Mrs. Stiver served as president for the first two years and the first two guest night parties were in her home.

The other past presidents included: Mrs. Dyball, Mrs. King, Mrs. Hendricks, Mrs. Stoudt, Mrs. A. B. Hobson, Mrs. L. D. Cessna, Mrs. E. F. Miller, Mrs. W. F. Kirkbride, Mrs. J. T. Burns, Mrs. Astor, Mrs. Cornwell, and Mrs. Neil Knowlton.

One of the highlights of the years has been the development of musical talent of high school students through the Junior Music Study and the Musical Culture clubs. Mrs. Dyball served as one of the junior counselors for many years.

The club also sponsored a Musical Arts club for post-graduates at one time.

At the present time there is only one Junior Music Study club.

Spencer Music Week
For years the club has promoted the observance of National Music week here, sponsoring an annual concert on the first Sunday in May at the Methodist church. Until a few years ago the members also worked with the schools on this project.

For several years the club had a quartet, which was popular with Salem people.

It included the late Mrs. Hobson, the late Mrs. Calvin Lenseure, Mrs. Forest Coy, now of Marion, and Mrs. Charles Cornwell, Mrs. Pauli Covert now of Erie, Pa., was the accompanist.

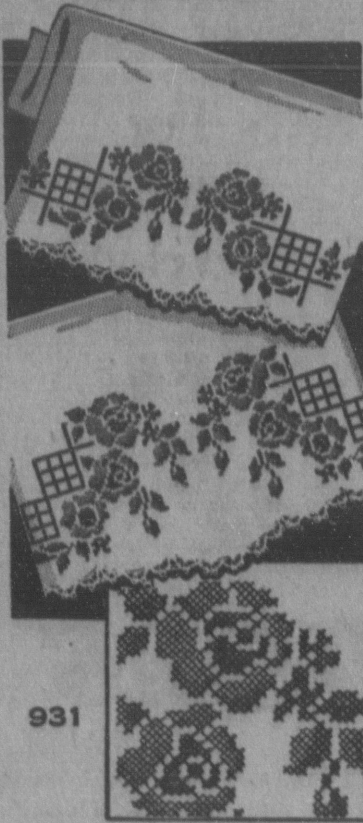

While the club has not taken an active part in civic affairs, the members did plant an American elm in Centennial park Nov. 21, 1941, in commemoration of the Washington bi-centennial, which was the following year.

The 1948-49 officers are:

President, Mrs. Taylor; first vice president, Mrs. D. N. Bailey, second vice president, Mrs. M. P. Livingston; secretary, Mrs. Melvin A. York; treasurer, Mrs. Donald Dusenberry.

The club has 27 active and 10 associate members.

Ohio Coaches Set Up New Method For Picking Teams For Annual All-Star Game

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, May 15.—(AP)—Ohio's high school coaches had a new setup today for selecting players and managers for the annual North-South all-star football game.

The new idea goes into effect next fall for the 1950 fixture, date and site of which have not been set. The 1949 classic is booked August 14 at Massillon.

Under the new plan the upper and lower halves of the state will be divided into eight districts each. The eight areas will have some 10 schools in each.

Balls will be sent to each school, and they'll come back to a central counting spot. Then the percentages get to work.

The player getting the most votes in any area gets 40 points, the second placed 39, etc. The same goes for coaches to be named to the each area, based on votes from the other seven districts, also gets 40 points, with a down-graded score for the others. The coaches, ditto.

Teams with an all-victorious record will get 10 points for all players and the mentor. Those with one loss get nine, those with two get eight, etc. Then the press moves in with its votes, and again the top player and coach get 10 points, the second placed nine, and so on.

The committee adds up the points, and the players and coaches with the big totals get the nod. Five coaches and 25 players (all seniors) will be named for each all-star team.

The Associated Press, with the cooperation of the coaches, officials and sports editors, will continue to select the All-Ohio team, recognized by the Coaches association as official.

The new plan for picking the all-stars and coaches was announced last night at Ohio State university's clinic banquet by Glenn (Tiger) Ellison of Middletown, newly-elected vice president of the coaches group.

Ralph (Tommy) Ness, former Wittenberg star now coaching Lakewood high, and head mentor of this year's northern all-stars, was elected president of the coaches, succeeding Gil Smith of Van Wert. Carl (Ducky) Schroeder of Massillon was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Ellison and Ray Schick of Newark will be co-coaches of the Southern all-stars this season.

The coaches were gathered for Ohio State's 18th annual clinic, to be climaxed today by the intrasquad game winding up the spring training grind for the Bucks. The game goes on at 3 p. m., with the first and fourth teams meeting the second and third.

Much of the talk around the clinic banquet hinted that Paul Walker, Middletown's hot-shot basketball coach, was No. 1 in the line forming to succeed "Barney" Francis as athletic director, football and basketball coach at Lancaster High school—one of Ohio's scholastic plums.

Aledo university athletic director and 85 seek his old job.

Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma university's head coach and principal speaker at the clinic, brought forth a round of applause at the banquet when he told the coaches:

"Ohio high school football is the best in the United States, and you are the fellows who made it that way."

Headlining this morning's clinic program were those arch-rivals of Ohio scholastic football, Charles (Chuck) Mather of Massillon and Herman (Bup) Rensick of Canton McKinley.

Amvets, Massillon Outfit Battle To 3-3 12-Inning Tie

Massillon's Cigars and Salem's Amvets battled to a 3-3 tie for 12 innings Sunday afternoon before rain halted the contest.

Massillon went eight innings without a hit, but came through in the ninth for the three runs needed to prolong the agony. The contest might well have been going yet if the rain hadn't interrupted.

Chalk Up Error For Those Who Predicted Tight Race Between Cleveland, Boston

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

False alarm! Chalk up another error for the experts who predicted a two-team race between Boston and Cleveland for the American league pennant.

The prognosticators failed to take into consideration the over-all improvement of the so-called weaker clubs—particularly the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators.

First the Nats made the experts squirm by running up a winning streak of nine straight. No sooner had the Senators cooled off than the Chisox began to sizzle. And the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns have shown signs of emerging from their coma.

With the New York Yankees grabbing an early lead, and Detroit and Philadelphia playing better than .500 ball, it now looks like a dog-eat-dog battle right down to the wire. Only four and a half games separate the first place Yankees and seventh place Red Sox.

The White Sox turned in the eyelifter of the season yesterday when they shut out the Indians twice at Chicago, 10-0 and 2-0. The double-whitewashing of the World Champions was especially pleasing to the Sox because a record crowd of 53,325 was on hand.

Bill Wight and Allen Gettel wielded the white wash brushes for the winners. Wight, the ex-Yankee southpaw, pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his fourth straight victory. He still hasn't tasted defeat. Gettel, who once pitched for the Indians as well as the Yankees, deked out four hits in the nightcap.

Roogie Gordon Goldsberry's first major league home run with a runner aboard accounted for Chicago's runs in the nightcap and gave the Sox a sweep of the three-game series. The double success boosted them into third place, two and a half games from the top.

Coming through with a spectacular seven-run outburst in what proved to be the final inning of the second game, the Athletics overcame a 6-0 deficit to nip the Yankees 7-6 for a sweep of their doubleheader. The A's also fought an uphill battle in the opener, winning 8-7 in 11 innings after trailing 7-3 going into the seventh.

Jughandle Joe Dobson posted his first victory of the season, limiting the Senators to four hits as the Red Sox shut out the Tigers had won the opener, 9-3. The Browns came back to combine 11 hits and 14 bases on balls to win the second game, 12-4.

Boston's Braves and the New York Giants continued in their first place National league deadlock for the third straight day. The Braves made it three in a row over the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 4-0 shutout triumph, while the Giants whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-3, for a sweep of their three-game set.

Vern Bickford pitched the shutout for Boston, permitting the fourth place Dodgers only four singles. The Giants collected only eight hits (no homers) but took advantage of seven bases on balls to hang the second defeat upon young Curt Simmons.

Chuck Diering's two-out double in the ninth drove in the tying run, and Red Schoendienst's single sent in the winning run as the St. Louis Cardinals came up with two runs to nip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3. Cincinnati and Chicago divided a doubleheader, the Reds winning the opener, 6-5, and the Cubs taking the nightcap, 8-5. Johnny Wyrostek, whose ninth inning heater with a man on base had sent the first game into extra innings, singled in Red Stalcup with the winning run in the 10th.

WANT A NEW CAR? THE WAR IS OVER IN THE AUTO GAME

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, May 16—(UP)—Time flies, and now what do you suppose?

Your auto dealer is about to start ringing doorbells and asking if you would like delivery on a new car? And would you maybe wait until, say, 4 o'clock this afternoon?

At nearby Silver Springs, Md., the first all-make auto show in the country in eight years is opening.

There, in all their shining glory are 40 new cars of 25 leading makes—about $100,000 worth of automobiles. And beside each stood a dealer or a salesman. Some fellows were whooping it up for new machines with "ventiports" or port-holes on the sides. Some for all-steel station wagons. Cars three inches shorter. Lower, wider and roomier, with 22.8 percent more glass in the sedans. Front seats three inches wider and back seats that boast three inches more leg room. More head room fore and aft. A larger trunk. A tail light that combines stop light, tail light, directional signal and reflector.

The crowd attending the show stood with jaws agape watching the big new Buicks, Chryslers, Cadillacs, Lincolns, Packards, Hudsons and Oldsmobiles, among others.

But the darlings of the parade of expensive steel and plush were the midsize, foreign-made Hillmans, Morris's, Austins and M.G.'s plus, the tiny American-made Crosleys.

Jack Fry, a local dealer, who wouldn't be caught dead in a full grown car, was on hand with all his lieutenants to tell the folks about the little ones.

Mileage Noted
He had something nice to say about all of them. The 30-odd miles you get in most of 'em on a gallon of fuel in traffic. The high-speed four-cylinder motors. The little tires which cost less.

If you had a minute, Jack was willing to point the finer things about a custom-built convertible among the midsize which would cost you only $4,000—if you could afford a second car in the family garage.

Pry was particularly proud of some tests made recently at the old Buick speedway at Indianapolis, where the 500-mile Memorial Day race will be run.

A British Austin convertible has become the first foreign automobile to hold U.S. stock car records. That little speed devil, he said, established 53 new distance and speed marks and broke 10 other records that have stood the test of 20 years.

It was an 88-horsepower Atlantic model. Three drivers took turns and drove continuously for an entire week. During that time they covered 11,850 miles at an average speed of 70.44 miles an hour.

A man came around about that time with the news that there were 3,000,000 more machines on the highways last year than the year before. And 4,000,000 more coming out in 1949.

Somehow that reminded me I had parked my own Austin under a mail box. I dug 'er out and hit it for home to beat the rush.

Modular System Suggested As A Better Way To Build

Lumber Dealers Promote Planning To Cut Costs of Production, Eliminate Waste and Use Prefabricated Parts

"Here's a better way to build," says the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association, promoting the modular system of planning to cut construction costs.

This is a system of planning all measurements in multiples of 4 inches. This 4-inch module allows all brick work to come out even. It accommodates lumber as it comes from the mill, minimizing sawing and waste of the job. It permits the fitting of standard size window and door frames, as well as prefabricated details such as stairs, mantels, cupboards and shelves.

It has been estimated that some 20,000 individual parts can go into the make-up of the typical dwelling. The problem of fitting all of these parts necessarily involves considerable waste.

For example, diagonal rough flooring or sheathing usually is allowed to project at edges and corners to be sawed off later. On many jobs this waste, along with great chunks of beams and joists clutter the ground where the carpenters work, while the owner pays the bill.

The modular plan aims to eliminate much of the waste by having the house designed for standard lengths and standard sizes of materials, and by gearing industry to such standards so that each piece will fit without cutting on the job.

The result is what the sponsors call the industry-engineered home. One of the chief aims of the program is to reduce time, loss, waste, cutting and fitting, while maintaining the assets of wide selection and flexibility.

In planning a house for modular construction all interior dimensions are planned on 4-foot modules. The architect automatically thinks in multiples of 4-inch cubes. He will specify a certain doorway to be 3 feet, 4 inches wide, instead of 3 1/2 feet or 5 feet 3 inches.

This won't cramp your yen for individuality. You won't have to have a house like your neighbor. You'll still enjoy an indefinite range of flexibility in exterior design and interior arrangement.

Modular co-ordination was made a joint project of the Producers' Council and the American Institute of Architects in 1939. Since that time the idea has gained rapid acceptance among manufacturers of building materials and equipment. Hundreds of industries have converted to production on the modular scale.

Although some architects have found "bugs" in the idea, they are adjusting to it noticeably. One says:

"This system has been accepted by architects and material manufacturers. It will be used more in planning small houses than it is now. Its use will become automatic."

To demonstrate the effectiveness of modular planning, model houses have been erected by the University of Illinois under a grant from the office of Technical Services, U. S. Department of Commerce.

"The basic aim of the study," says the lumber dealers association, "has been to establish general principles which will be applicable to small home building throughout the country, and which can be applied by architects and builders to any scale of operation."

However, some architects who have specialized in cutting costs through the use of standard lengths of lumber, see room for improvement in the modular plan. Rudolph Matern of Jamaica, Long Island, is one of these dissenters.

One of the first things he looks for in any house plan, he says, are room dimensions of 11'4", 13'4", etc. These indicate the use of standard 12 and 14-foot beams with allowances made for walls and partitions. Matern explains that he has done so much work for large scale builders that he is conscious of this economy.

"In building many houses at once," he says, "if a builder sees a lot of waste lumber on the job, he blames the architect."

This architect selected a specific modular design to criticize. It was a house 24 feet wide.

"Framing difficulties were not encountered in the floor because the floor was a concrete slab," he explained. "However, in the roof, the framing required 16-ft. ceiling beams and 10-ft. ceiling beams, making a total effective framing width of 26 feet in a plan width of 24 feet.

"This means a waste of 1 ft. 8 in. for each ceiling beam. Normally a building of this nature would be designed 23 ft. 8 in. wide, allowing for a 16-ft. and an 8-ft. ceiling beam with the 4-in. lap on the bearing partition.

"It is true that you could span the entire 24 feet with one piece of lumber. However, the 24-ft. length is more costly per board foot, due to the premium on long lengths of lumber.

"In this same plan there is a kitchen 7-ft. 8 in. in width with a range and refrigerator directly opposite each other. Both the range and refrigerator are greater than 2 feet in depth, leaving roughly 3 ft. 4 in. between these two units. The space became inadequate due to strict adherence to the modular system.

"In another place in the plan, a very short hall of 8 ft. in length, connecting a bedroom with a bath and study was made 4 ft. wide. For the lack of traffic that such a hall would get, there is roughly 25 percent waste in floor, wall and ceiling, because a 2-ft. width would be entirely adequate."

Champions of the modular system, on the other hand, place the blame for that 4-ft. hall upon the design rather than on the system. Neither hall nor stairway shown in the plan on this page is 4 ft. in width. Yet each is a multiple of the 4-inch basic module. Their non-bearing partitions allow for this flexibility.

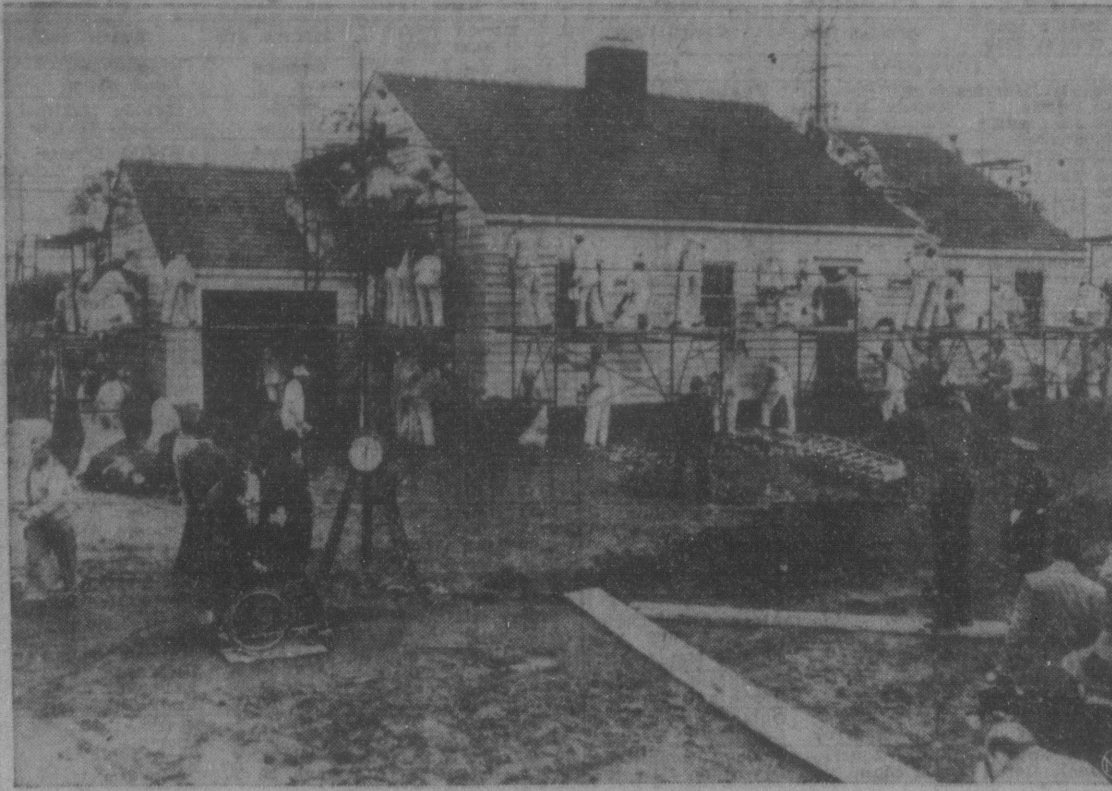

Sponsors of the idea contend that co-ordination in adoption of the system has been the biggest task, rather than adjustment of the principle to meet planning problems. They have had to convince not only architects and builders, but manufacturers of brick, concrete blocks, clay tile, wall board, insulation, plywood and millwork that the idea is practicable and economical for all concerned.

The modular system is based in the 4-inch unit because this has been a controlling factor in the designing of American homes for many years. The spacing of joists and studs 16 and 24 inches from center to center, and the usual nominal thickness of the 2 by 4 stud (when placed in partition) have long been accepted as standard.

Strides made in converting to the system are apparent in many materials. Modular bricks are available, 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 inches long. These allow for mortar joints 1/2-inch to 3/4-inch thick, making an 8-inch modular length. Small joint allowances are made in the other two dimensions of the bricks.

Lumber lengths are standards in multiples of 4 feet. Windows in both wood and metal frames now fit openings in multiples of 4 inches.

Paint Vet's House--In Two and a Half Minutes

The slap-slap of brushes sounded like machine-gun fire when these 96 workers painted a crippled war veteran's five-room house in a record-breaking two minutes and 32 seconds. The $20,000 home belongs to Bob Hoelzie, 23, crippled by Jap gunfire on Okinawa when he was 19. It was given the former Marine by fellow citizens of New Brunswick, N. J., in recognition of his war record. Hoelzie, seated at left in wheelchair, beside his fiancée, Frances Elaine Noll, watches the sweeping second hand of the big clock set up to time the painters. All volunteers, they were members of Local 834 (AFL) Painters and Decorators Union. House won't be completely finished until just before Hoelzie's marriage to Miss Noll, June 12.

es. Dry wall construction materials also conform. Sheet-board and plywood are on the market in 48-inch and 96-inch lengths as well as other multiples of 4. Plaster-board comes in 16 in. x 48 in. sizes. Insulating bats are planned to fit between studs and rafters spaced 16 inches on centers.

The program has been realistic. "While one set of dimensions might show large savings for a single material, it might also create installation problems for other materials resulting in a net loss," the sponsors admit. "Plans finally evolved were those which appeared to offer the greatest total savings."

And Architect A. Raymond Ellis of West Hartford, Conn., adds: "Some small builders and home owners think the modular system increases the cost; but it is really more economical when fully applied."

Ratproof Building

Materials Favored

Ratproofing of farm buildings together with other rat control measures, is strongly recommended by agricultural experts as a means of reducing the huge annual food losses due to rodents.

Millions of dollars worth of grain and other food are eaten and destroyed by farm rats each year. One rat alone can consume 50 pounds of grain a year and spoil much more.

One effective way of ratproofing a farm building is to line the interior walls and ceiling, and in some cases the floor, with asbestos cement board. When used as a flooring surface the board should be laid to sturdy wood subflooring. Grain storages, hog houses and poultry shelters are among the types of structures for which asbestos board is especially suitable. Hard and longlasting, the board is easy to keep clean by washing or scraping. It comes in large sheets which can be applied quickly.

SALEM HOME FEATURES STONE, CLOSETS

Another attractive home is nearing completion in the E. 10th st. section of Salem. Ned Massa is putting the finishing touches on his brick and stone home and plans to move in this summer.

It has five rooms, vestibule and bath on the first floor; three rooms in the basement and a finished second story in which three rooms could be added. The home is classed in the $22,000 bracket.

A forced-air coal-fired furnace has been installed. A future recreation room could be finished in the 18 by 41 ft. basement room. The laundry room is 13 ft. by 41 ft. with an offset for the furnace. The coal room will hold a year's supply of fuel. A shower and lavatory are being placed in one corner of the laundry room. A 66-gallon electric water heater and a water softener have been installed. All plumbing is copper tubing.

The base of the house is 8-inch concrete block up to the ground level with 4-inch concrete block up to the first floor. The house exterior of brick extends from ground level to roof gables. Asbestos shingles were used for roofing.

In the kitchen a 52 by 56-inch picture frame window looks out over the beautiful back lawns of homes on Ninth st. Over the sink is a casement type Truscon window. Another has been placed in the bathroom while all other windows are the double-hinged Truscon type. Hardwood oak floors are used throughout the home except in the linoleum-covered kitchen and bathroom floors. Smooth white plaster has been used for interior walls and may be painted, according to Massa.

Cut sandstone has been used for the living room fireplace as well as the vestibule exterior and as corner and wall decorations of the house.

Massa considers the vestibule one of the features of the house. It is 5 ft. by 12 ft., to allow generous room when removing outer wraps. A closet in the back of the vestibule is the first of four closets which extend through the center of the house and separate the living and diningroom from the master bedroom and bath.

The brass lighting fixture theme is used in the Massa home. Elongated with a natural finish has been used for the 11 first floor doors. There is a cedar-lined storage closet near the master bedroom. Both the master and guest bedrooms have large closets.

The single-car garage behind the house was constructed three feet wider than necessary in case Massa would want to convert the present first floor guest bedroom into a den and install a fireplace in this room. The garage extends a few feet beyond the side of the house for decoration.

The second story has been completely floored. Insulation will be placed under the roof at this time. It is entered through an enclosed stairway.

An 11 ft. by 11 ft. outside porch has been constructed in back of part of the living room. A family of birds have already taken up residence in the new home—in a porch corner nest.

The general contractor and carpenter work was handled by Fred Ruffer. The extensive masonry was under the supervision of Joseph Massa, father of the owner. The plumbing was done by Salem Plumbing and Firestone Electric handled the electrical installations. The heating unit was placed by Ellis Coy and plastering by Charles Maxwell. The inside painting and wood finishing was done by Frank Kesselmeier for the home.

Lumber Output In Northwest Nears Demand

SEATTLE—With lumber production now caught up with demand, the lumber industry is the first of major industries to show signs of returning to normal.

That is the opinion of H. V. Simpson, executive vice president of the West Coast Lumbermen's association. Simpson pointed out that busy Douglas fir sawmills in Oregon and Washington last year turned out the most valuable single year's output in the industry's history.

The total value of the year's manufactured products was $677,250,000, with 90 percent of that amount representing new money brought into the two states. Production, measured in board feet, totaled 8,500,000,000 during 1948 in western Oregon and Washington.

Less Waste Now
Simpson said the biggest development in the industry has been in better forest utilization. He said the strong demand, both during the war and after, has made it profitable for loggers to market parts of trees that they previously had to throw away as waste.

Simpson said the West Coast lumber industry is producing 2,000,000,000 board feet a year of this type of inexpensive low-grade lumber. He said this increased utilization means that Douglas fir forests actually contain 25 percent more wood volume than they did before.

Fires Reduced
Another big improvement in the industry, he added, has been the tree farm program, which has spread from the West Coast region into 22 states since 1941.

Simpson also praised the "keep green" movements of Pacific north states, which he said has held losses that resulted from man-caused fires to a very low figure.

Simpson said the lumber industry would be able to fill all orders for home building or industry during 1949.

Materials Are Fire Safe

Great strides have been made in perfecting fire resistant building materials. You can now build or remodel a home with more safety from fire than ever before.

Some of these new materials, oddly enough, utilize wood, but it is specially treated wood. Others are made of glass, volcanic ash and a form of mica-vermiculite.

Homeowners or builders intending to use such materials should make sure that they bear the label or listing of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (U.L.).

Materials listed by these laboratories must pass a standard fire test. It usually consists of exposure of panels made of the materials to an intense gas flame for a specified time. Then the panel is subjected to a stream of water from a 2½-inch fire hose. If it survives those tests and retains its strength it may be approved.

A fire safe home might be constructed of the following approved materials:

- 1.—Concrete masonry units, made up of Portland cement, sand and gravel, cinders, blast furnace slag, burned shale, etc.
- 2.—Cellular glass blocks, a thermal insulating material.
- 3.—Lumber treated to reduce fire hazard. This is usually Douglas fir, southern yellow pine, or plywood, treated with a pressure process that forces metallic salt or other chemicals into the wood.
- 4.—Asphalt-asbestos-protected metal. This is corrugated sheet steel with asphalt saturated asbestos applied with a metallic adhesive on one or both surfaces.
- 5.—Plaster bases in sheet form, some reinforced with woven wire. When installed on both sides of a partition according to U.L. specifications these plaster bases furnish protection against passage of flame and dangerous transmission of heat for one hour.
- 6.—Wallboard in 48-inch sheets, was given a 45-minute fire resistance classification when installed on both sides of a partition.
- 7.—Fire-resistant plywood flush-type doors withstand a standard fire test without losing shape or allowing passage of flame or smoke.
- 8.—Fire-treated coating material—a new paint—can be applied by brush or spray. It reduces combustibility and is suitable for doors and wood trim.
- 9.—A new fabric wall covering has negligible fuel and smoke contribution. It is useful in kitchens, nurseries and hospitals.

In addition, glass bricks have been approved for window openings with light fire exposure. In all cases, the materials should be installed in accordance with the manufacturers' directions.

New Metal Awnings, Permanent Fixtures

One objection to awnings has been that they darken rooms and pocket heat.

To meet those objections there is a new enameled steel awning with adjustable vertical louvers working on the Venetian blind principle. These can be opened against the sun to maintain shade and still admit light and air. A control arm for the louvers extends through the window frame into the house.

The tops of alternate louvers are enameled in matching shades of colors to order. This produces interesting striped designs. The underside of the entire awning is enameled in white for maximum light reflection.

This awning is a permanent fixture, eliminating storage problems. Another permanent awning is made out of aluminum with horizontal louvers. This type can be raised or lowered from the inside and the louvers nest themselves in a compact fold.

For standard awnings there is a new fabric of fused glass coated with plastic resins, making the entire surface resistant to mildew and fire. Available in 10 colors, this fabric is adaptable to other canvas purposes.

Gay Flower Beds Enhance Appearance of Ranch House

Landscape planting about a house should be a decoration, carefully planned to enhance the beauty of the building, completing an attractive picture as it is viewed from the street.

When tall trees dwarf the house, and over-large shrubs and evergreens hide it, and prevent the occupants from seeing out of the windows, the planting has not achieved its purpose.

Examples of such failures are frequently given by modern one-story homes planted with the shrubs and evergreens.

Only low growing plants should be planted in front of low homes; and the brightly colored annuals of dwarf habit are widely accepted as the most suitable plants for this purpose.

Their color gives a welcome touch, and they leave the view from windows unobstructed. Seed may be started early in seed-boxes indoors, and grown in a size suitable for transplanting by the time the soil can be prepared.

There are many varieties which will grow quickly from seed sown directly on the border where the plants are to grow, and they will bloom until frost weather comes in the fall. Besides providing a decoration for the house, many annuals are suitable for cutting, to be used in the house.

Dwarf double French marigolds, for planting as shown in the illustration, come in tones of orange, yellow and maroon, with several two-tone blends of these colors.

Fragrant, dwarf nasturtiums, in various tones of red, orange and yellow, harmonize with the marigolds, and will make a striking frame of bright color to enhance the beauty of a ranch house of grey blue or brown.

Mason Trainees Vie For Honors In Competition

Apprentice brickmasons from 49 states will compete in the first national bricklaying contest ever to be held, in Cleveland's Municipal auditorium May 17-22.

The competition sponsored by the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union (A.F.L.) will be held in conjunction with the American Federation of Labor's Union Trade Label exposition.

Approximately 80 boys, most of them veterans, who are learning their trade as brickmasons will vie in a contest of skill for the national championship of the brickmason apprentices. The contest will stress quality of workmanship, and will not be a speed competition.

The national apprentice champion will receive $500.00 in cash, plus other merchandise prizes contributed by the clay products industry and masonry tool manufacturers. A $200.00 cash prize will go to the runner-up, while $100.00 in cash will be awarded to the third place apprentice contestant.

The competition will open with a banquet on Tuesday, May 17, when International Union President Harry C. Bates will welcome the contestants and announce the rules of the contest. Three judges from the construction industry, architects and contractors will decide the winners.

Also cooperating with the B.M. & P.I.U. in this national-wide competition is the Structural Clay Products Institute, representing the nation's brick and tile manufacturers, who will furnish the materials and assist in arrangements for the competition.

Spring Ideal Time To Have Heating System Checked and Cleaned

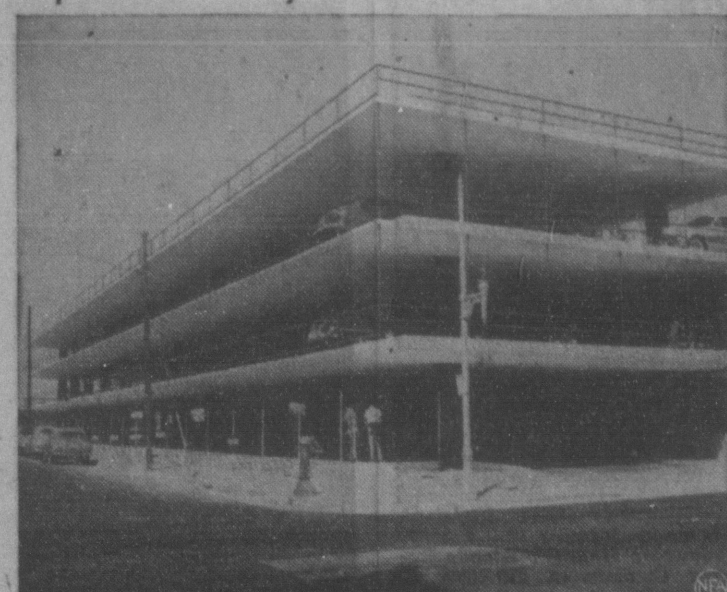

In the spring the home owner's fancy may turn to his garden and his lawn but if he is wise he will not forget that within another six months winter will be with us again. Accordingly, he will make it a point to see that his home heating system is inspected, checked and placed in readiness for the first cold days in the fall.

Right now is the ideal time in which to prepare the heating system for next winter, advises the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning association. The services of heating men are more readily available now than they will be later in the summer. As a result, servicing costs are more generally economical now than they will be when the annual deluge of service calls begin to pour in from home owners in September, October and November.

It pays in increased heating efficiency and less waste of fuel to have your heating system cleaned periodically. Soot deposits in the smoke pipe or chimney can be a fire hazard. Soot in the furnace itself acts as a heat insulating agent, thus preventing proper heating.

yellow, harmonize with the marigolds, and will make a striking frame of bright color to enhance the beauty of a ranch house of grey blue or brown.

Exposure—Any Direction You Want

This novel garage in Miami, Fla., has southern exposure—also northern, eastern and western. The four-deck building is completely wall-less and constructed on a still-like arrangement. It can accommodate 820 cars under cover and 150 on its roof.

Summer Home Plans Different

A summer home is a shirt sleeve version of a house. Its main functions are to provide recreation and relaxation. Its character is essentially informal.

The kind of a summer home you want depends entirely upon your likes, your personality, your family needs, your bank account.

If you are an outdoor fan, a hunter, fisherman, back-to-nature advocate, fed-up with city crowds and hungry for the solitude of the wilds, you certainly will not want a summer cottage in a populous built-up colony.

But if your idea of fun calls for sports and parties and a good time had by all, coupled with a dread of loneliness and a demand for modern conveniences and comfort, you'll shy away from the remote backwoods.

So between these choices you'll find the cabin and the cottage—perhaps the lodge and the "farm," depending on your budget.

Yet you may be so flush that you think of a vacation in terms of yachting, polo, country club dances, golf tournaments—in which case you'll be planning a summer home!

In any event construction, plan, decoration and furnishing will differ greatly from a year round dwelling. Each of those factors will be keyed to the idea of bringing the outdoors indoors much more than the most extreme functionalist would attempt in city or suburban architecture.

No matter what style summer home suits your family, the choice of its location is paramount. Convenience is a must. You can't spend most of your time traveling. And when you build you'll find long hauls for building materials add much to the cost.

Even a backwoods log cabin should enjoy accessibility. The wilds of Canada may offer excellent sites and be within a few hours drive from Canadian cities. But the resident of Atlanta, or Dallas, for example, will want his wilderness nearer home.

Trees also come high on the list when picking a site—unless you're a sun-baker headed for seashore or desert. But trees present their problems. Dense woods not only involve fire hazards, but shut out the sun, add to dampness and accelerate decay. Thinning out becomes necessary.

Tall trees, deprived of the protection of other trees, become a windstorm menace. So it is well to strike a balance between shade and safety.

Fresh water is vital. It is easier to carry firewood than water. Springs from rocks are usually safe, but if flowing from soil they should be tested. Lake water in the real wilds may be safe, but it is subject to animal contamination. Running streams can't be trusted for the same reason.

Moderate Care Keeps Hardwood Floors Shining

Keeping a home spot and span at all times admittedly is a real task for any homemaker, especially when there are small children in the family. There is a bright side to the story, however.

Homemaking specialists point out that among the features which contribute most to room attractiveness is one that involves relatively little time and effort—the maintenance of glistening hardwood floors.

Cleaning floors of oak or other hardwoods impart a pleasant air of cleanliness and add warm charm and dignity to any home. Homemakers fortunate enough to have fine hardwood floors can keep them sparkling with only a moderate amount of care. One of the principal recommended treatments is a daily sweeping with an untreated dust mop. This requires only a few minutes but is important because it wipes up loose dust that would dim the lustre of the floors.

The only other routine maintenance required to keep hardwood floors in tip-top shape is a cleaning and waxing about every three or four months. If they receive unusually hard wear, it is a good idea to clean them occasionally between waxings.

Cleaning should be done with a waxbase preparation made especially for such purposes. For waxing, experts recommend use of either paste wax or the rubbing type of liquid wax manufactured specially for hardwood floors. Such waxes not only give the floors a lustrous sheen, but leave a protective film that prevents dirt from being ground into the wood.

at top and bottom to check or increase draft.

Spaced an eighth of an inch apart, the glass slats allow a minimum amount of air to be drawn up the chimney, while enough is taken in to keep the glass cool and prevent smoke smudging.

In addition to preventing flying sparks, this system affords so much draft control that operation of the damper is unnecessary. Since fireplace heat is by radiation only, this invention is designed to preserve radiation while reducing heat loss up the chimney.

It has been estimated that a fireplace draws more than 100 times the amount of air into a house than is actually needed for proper combustion. This is noticeable by the drafts on the backs of persons sitting around a fireplace and it is said that high back wing chairs originally were designed to offset that discomfort.

Plans call for observation posts along the first 500 miles of the 3000-mile range to track flight and performance of missiles.
